SETTLEMENT.

We shall be again compelled to refer the readers of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE to a supplemental for the usual reading matter of that paper, as the main sheet already promises to be crowded with advertisements. We can only promise, however, that the extra sheet shall contain a proportionate variety of carefully-selected and entertaining matter that can be found in any other paper in this city.

Announcements of Meetings.

[Communication of the County Central Committee, dated Chicago, Oct. 30, 1868, to the Judges of Registration.]

We have been informed, from time to time, of a disposition on the part of the Judges of Registration in some of the wards of the city of the commission of acts which, if committed, would be in violation of the law.

Under the belief that such objectionable practices may be committed by the Judges of Registration in the approaching election, we deem it proper to call your attention to the following brief statement of the provisions of the law relating to registration.

[Here follow the provisions of the statute relating to the duties of Judges of Registration, which we have already published.]

The foregoing provisions are deemed sufficient for the guidance of the Judges of Registration, and we trust that they will be observed by them. Any violation of the law by them will be severely condemned by the people, and will surely result in the punishment of the offenders.

JOHN E. FARNHAM, Secretary.
CHARLES HARD, Chairman.

Under the above circumstances, the Democratic Central Committee deem it their duty to call upon the people to see that the law is fairly executed, and to that end they request that the registration for the morning—who was to take the oath—be present.

Each Democratic Judge of Registration will be entitled to one challenger, and he may call upon the Democratic Committee, under the law, to name such challengers.

And the Central Democratic Campaign Committee hereby claim the right to challenge the vote of any person, or persons, for the purpose of protecting the rights of the people in their rights. Signed by order of the Committee
